Pustozersk

Type town

When abandoned

A jail existed until 1762. In the 1950s inhabitants started to move to neighbouring villages and Naryan-Mar. In 1962 the last house at the river mouth was removed.

History

The name is "stamped" in the autumn of 1499 by the governor under a decree of Moscow's Tsar Ivan III. In the 16th-18th centuries it was the administrative, economic and cultural centre of the Pechora area, whose territory stretched northsouth from the Barents Sea to the Vychegda River and east-west from the Urals to the Mezen River.

With the closing of a sea way to Siberia in the beginning of the 17th Century it became deprived of its role as a storage terminal and strategic stronghold in the north of Russia.

In the end of 17th Century, there were city houses, a governor's mansion, a jail and a church.

In the 17th-18th centuries persons were send Putozersk, which were banished due to their objection to the authorities and official church, participants of the revolts of the K. Bulavina, S. Razin, Solovetskiy's "sittings"; protopriest Avvakuma and its associates and others. Putozersk was the centre for tax (yasak) collection.

Throughout the 17th-18th centuries it was exposed to attacks of "Charuchiy Samoyeds".

Since 1780 Putozersk was the volost (district) centre of the Mezen District, but gradually lost its significance.

In 1918 the first and second volost congresses of the revolutionary Soviet councils for the lower reaches of the Pechora area took place here.

In 1964, on the initiative of Dr. Phil. V.I. Malyshev, the city monument, an obelisk, was established.

In 1989 a wooden memorial symbol was placed at the site of execution of protopriest Avvakuma and its associates.

In 1991, the Pustozersk complex became a historical-natural museum.

Population

1563-64: 97 houses, 230 inh. 1574-75: 144 houses, 282 inh.

1926: 121 inh. 1936: 105 inh.

Remarks

The first Russian city above the Polar circle, an advanced post of the Moscow State at its northeastern frontier. Established at one of the channels of the Pechora River, 100 km from its mouth, on the bank of lake Pustoe. Pustozersk was the main stronghold for the advancement of Russia to the northeast. It played a significant role in the development of the Far North and Siberia. Its inhabitants deserve a considerable merit in opening the ways to the Arctic islands and the mouths of the Siberian rivers. Pustozersk was an important place for northern mineral prospecting expeditions, in which some of its inhabitants participated. In the 17th-18th centuries there was a special house for "prospectors".

2.4.6. Reindeer husbandry

The diagrams indicate the total reported number of reindeer and total meet production of the individual cooperatives from 2001 to 2009. Other indicators of reindeer husbandry are filed though not included here. Source: Div. of Reindeer husbandry at the Dep. of Agriculture, NAO Administration.

DATA: PROTECTED AREAS

2.4.7. Protected areas

Nenetskiy Nature Reserve

Status: Federal

Year of establishment: 1997 - 1999

Area: 3,134 km²

Aim of protection: Endangered species; preservation of habitat and protection of nesting waterfowls, as well as various salmon species.

Remarks: Intensive oil development made it necessary to establish this zone of restricted economic activity. Contains tundra with various mosses and grasses, vulnerable wetlands, sedge bogs, streamlets, small rivers and lakes with sea connection and spawning grounds. Suitable for studying bird migration. One third of the area is reindeer pastures. Prohibitions: All activities changing the hydrological characteristics of the area, prospecting, mineral exploration and extraction, infringement of soil cover and bedrock, gathering and preparation of wildgrowing fruits, berries, mushrooms and other kinds of using vegetation, construction of industrial and agricultural enterprises, roads, bridges, powerlines and other communications (except for those necessary for the maintenance of the reserve), trade -, sports - and amateur hunting and fishing and other kinds of wildlife use, introduction of alien species, trespassing by unauthorised persons, motor transport (including on waterways) except on assigned roads and routes, air traffic below 2000 m, other activities infringing natural processes.

Exceptions: Traditional economic activities by Northern indigenous people, including reindeer husbandry, is permitted on the Zakharinskiy coast for the SPK im. Vyucheyskogo.

Nenetskiy National Park

Status: Federal

Year of establishment: 1985

Area: 3,000 km²

Aim of protection: Endangered species of flora and fauna; study of tundra ecosystems to promote rational use and protection of the tundra

Prohibitions: Tourism, all kinds of hunting (including marine mammals), destruction of birds' nests and other wildlife dwellings, gathering of eggs and down, bringing weapons, tools and dogs, trade and amateur salmon fishing (except for research), application of poisonous chemicals without an excemption permit, motorised offroad transport during the snow-free period, water transport except on assigned routes, building of houses and constructions not related to the activity of the national park, burning of vegetation, use of fires during the dry season, cutting down wood in wildlife habitats, contamination of land or water reservoirs by mineral oil, waste from industrial activity or other waste, gathering or destruction of endangered plants

Exceptions: Traditional economic activities by Northern indigenous people, including reindeer husbandry, is permitted.

Nizhnepechorskiy National Park

Status: Regional

Year of establishment: 1998

Area: 1060 km², including Lake Golodnaya Guba (272 km²) and part of the Pechora River delta (788km²)

DATA: PROTECTED AREAS

Aim of protection: Preservation of a unique delta habitat, places of reproduction of salmon species, wetlands, waterfowl feeding areas during the summer period, including endangered species.

Vaigachskiy National Park

Status: Regional

Year of establishment: 1983

Area: 3,330 km² (including a 3 km zone around all islands)

Aim of protection: Protection of reproduction and restoration of eider ducks, small swan, sea eagle, falcon, geese species, and polar bear.

Shoynskiy National Park

Status: Regional

Year of establishment: 1997

Size: 164 km²

Aim of protection: Preservation of unique wetlands, nesting places of valuable and rare waterfowl.

Bolshezemelskiy National Park

Status: Regional

Year of establishment: no data

Area: [ca. 2500 km²]

Aim of protection: no data

Remarks: Information only from official geographical map 1:1,000,000

More-Yu National Park

Status: Regional

Year of establishment: 1999

Area: 548 km²

Aim of protection: Relic open fur tree forest, situated 150 north of the northern forest tundra limit (120-150 years old trees); ornithological value, including endangered species.

Kanyon Bolshie Vorota Nature Monument

Status: Regional

Year of establishment: 2009

Area: 2.12 km²

Aim of protection: Preservation of a unique picturesque landscape at the Belaya River, including fish fauna and flora with their scientific and eco-educational values.

Pym-Va-Shor Nature Monument

Status: Regional

Year of establishment: 2009

Area: 24.25 km²

Aim of protection: Preservation of a complex of natural and artificial objects, including mineral-rich thermal springs, archeological, geological objects as well as fauna and flora at the river Pym-Va-Shor.
